

July 1, 2009

Elkhorn, NEB - CattleXpert Management Software, LLC is releasing a new feedlot and stocker management product known as CattleXpertCentral. This new product is revolutionary in its vision by providing cattle accounting software functionality without the use of office personnel or costly infrastructure.

CattleXpertCentral (CXC) is a remote management service that accepts weekly submitted information and provides within a short period of time selected weekly reports, like the 15 Day Consumption Report, updated yard sheets, etc, and end-of-month reports including invoices, show lists, etc, back to the client allowing for the ability to be evaluating, assessing and applying data in a near real-time manner rather than reactively doing so a month after the fact.

CXC enables operations to keep complete cattle performance and accounting records without the hassle of learning a new computer management system while eliminating the cost of additional employees or expensive hardware. All size yards now have access to the same playing field to do business on. The pricing for the CXC service is based on a per-head per-day fee with an initial per head license charge. The monthly CXC invoice is derived directly from the client's head days on their invoices that are billed out for exact charges.

CattleXpertCentral forms are simple to complete and submit, either by email or fax. CXC lets you keep running your operation exactly like you were before or allows you to make those changes that you always wanted to make.

Several additional functionality options are available including keeping records on a group or individual level, adding grain bank or guaranteed pricing for custom feeders, selecting other reports to include weekly or monthly to name a few.

CattleXpertCentral has been developed in collaboration with Suther Feeds. Suther's is a full service animal nutrition company focused on providing client solutions to today's business challenges. Suther's is using CXC to provide a tremendous value-added service for their clients in data management to increase operation efficiencies, realize true feed performance and create improved marketing potential for the client through weekly and monthly consultations.

CattleXpert Management Software, LLC offers a complete Windows based cattle management system since 1995 that includes procurement, processing, cattle accounting, sales, feeding, commodity management, animal health, individual management, and hundreds of reports. CattleXpert can be used as a stand-alone single or multi-site software application, and can be utilized in conjunction with StockerXpert and OutsideCattleXpert for managing other facets of an operation.

For more information: CattleXpert Management Software, LLC www.cattlexpert.com 866-613-2869 or Suther Feeds at 800-633-4139 or www.Sutherfeeds.com.